

I feel that a further consolidation of ownership of media will reduce the quality of information available in our country. The "economies of scale" to be gained by further consolidation are not worth the social disadvantages. Media outlets are able to collaborate in sharing content and coverage without having to be tied together by ownership, and that collaboration can deliver much of the advantages of "economies of scale".